ADELAIDE, AUSTRALIA, January 21, 2020:

Today IPACS Australia and Tacmin Group hosted the Honorable David Ridgeway MLC, Minister for Trade and Investment, Government of South Australia at IPACS Australia office at Technology Park, Mawson Lakes, South Australia.

IPACS, an Australian technology company specializing in the collection, monitoring and reporting of real-time asset performance in various industries.

Tacmin Madini, a South African registered boutique project management consultancy that offers expertise and resources in delivering operational readiness, asset management and digital transformation services to the mining, minerals, construction, energy and power market sectors, was founded in 1996 by Sarel Blaauw, a former director of a leading South African open-pit contract mining company. Since 1996 Tacmin have executed 1210 mobile asset management related assignments, generated mining cost benchmark models for international Blue Chip mining companies, with project values fetching up to US$ 5 billion, during which we simulated the Clients' mine site conditions and imported geological and mine engineering data basis of up to 100 Gb for more than 12 different commodities - of which the annual ROM production on some exceeded 60,000,000 tons per annum.

On 4th December 2019, IPACS and Tacmin Group signed a Memorandum of Understanding (MoU) to jointly pursue technical and business opportunities in key industries in South Africa ,namely natural resources, defence and construction. The signing event was hosted by the Government of South Australia and was witnessed by Honourable David Ridgeway MLC, Minister for Trade, Tourism and Investment, Government of South Australia. Following this event, Minister David Ridgway expressed an interest to visit IPACS Australia office in Technology Park, Mawson Lakes.

Mr. Kailash Sriram, CEO of IPACS Australia said “Today marks an important event for our company. We are jointly working with Tacmin Group to export our Australian technology to the South African mining industry.”

Mr. Sarel Blaauw, CEO of Tacmin Group, said “Tacmin and IPACS have been working for the last five months to jointly pursue opportunities in South Australia and Russia. We have identified several opportunities and are progressing them as we speak. Later this year, we hope to establish our first remote operation centre in South Africa in partnership with IPACS Australia.”

Mr. Blaauw said that “Tacmin is proud to partner with IPACS to deliver IPACS’ leading edge technology to the South African market.”
